Altar Guild Help Needed

Trinity is in dire need of volunteers to serve on our Altar Guild team.

Tasks are:

- Saturdays: Set-up and reset the altar
- Sundays: Clean up communion and deliver flowers to a designated member of Trinity.

Setting the Lord's Table is truly an honor and blessing. Please contact Jean Zeinert at (920) 722-2662 to become a member of our team.

Just A Reminder:

After Bible Studies, Sunday School, or meetings, please turn off the lights as you leave your room. Thank you!

Catechetical Comments

A Series

THE APOSTLES' CREED

This month we continue our consideration of the First Article of the Apostles' Creed by taking up question 109.

109. Why are there evil and suffering in this world?

Evil and suffering are in the world because of sin. But in the suffering, death, and resurrection of Jesus Christ, God has demonstrated His power over sin and death. God in His almighty power and love causes all things to work together for good to those who love Him.

The Catechism continues its explanation of the First Article of the Creed by asking the question:

Why are there evil and suffering in this world?

It answers this question by saying:

Evil and suffering are in the world because of sin. But in the suffering, death, and resurrection of Jesus Christ, God has demonstrated His power over sin and death. God in His almighty power and love causes all things to work together for good to those who love Him.

It then presents the following Scriptures in support of this answer:

Romans 6:23 – The wages of sin is death, but the free gift of God is eternal life in Christ Jesus our Lord.

Romans 8:28 – And we know that for those who love God all things work together for good, for those who are called according to His purpose.

Romans 8:37 – In all these things we are more than conquerors through Him who loved us.

God is not responsible for sin. Jesus, in Matthew 13, tells this parable:

“The kingdom of heaven may be compared to a man who sowed good seed in his field, but while his men were sleeping, his enemy came and sowed weeds among the wheat and went away. So when the plants came up and bore grain, then the weeds appeared also. And the servants of the master of the house came and said to him, ‘Master, did you not sow good seed in your field? How then does it have weeds?’ He said to them, ‘An enemy has done this.’”

Sin is the product of the enemy, of Satan. He devised evil and deception, he employed it against our ancestors Adam and Eve, and has continued his evil actions ever since, being called by the Lord in Scripture: the deceiver (Rev. 12:9), the accuser (Rev. 12:10), and the father of lies, not to mention a murderer (John 8:44).

The fact is that evil began with Satan, but has been perpetuated by us since our first parents fell into sin. God is not responsible for evil, but He has made a way for evil to be defeated, namely, by the death and resurrection of Jesus, His Son.

Sadly, evil will continue in this world and in our lives until we, who have been saved by grace through faith, are called out of this world, either by our own death or at the return of Christ to take us all to Himself in heaven. ✠

Humbly in His service,

What compelled Paul to write what he did to Timothy? And why did he write what he did? Surely there are many things he could have written; many things Timothy needed to do to care for his flock. But he says first of all, first of all pray. Pray for all people, and especially kings and people in high positions; people of prominence and authority.

Good advice, certainly. But there's more to it, I think. Namely, that for Paul, it was thanksgiving. Not the holiday, of course. That wouldn't happen for another 1600 or 1800 years, with the pilgrim's feast and the declaration of Abraham Lincoln. So to get to Paul's thanksgiving, we have to follow the little word "then." Which could also be translated therefore. First of all, then, therefore, I urge you, Timothy, to pray. With that word Paul is referring to what he had written just before this, as the basis for this instruction. So what had Paul written?

Well, he had just written about himself and his former way of life. So when he tells Timothy to pray for all people, especially those in authority, maybe he was thinking about himself. For in his former life, Paul had authority from the Jewish leaders to arrest and imprison Christians, and he was highly successful. He was ravaging the church (Acts 8:3). And while he was doing this and ascending in prominence, he was also descending closer and closer to hell.

But he was rescued. And maybe, maybe he would find out later, because those he was persecuting were praying for him. Jesus had told them to love your enemies and pray for those who persecute you (Matthew 5:44). And number one on that list of persecutors would have been Paul. But look at him now! Rescued from the threatening perils of his sins, and filled with thanksgiving. He, himself is living proof that, God wants all people to be saved and come to the knowledge of the truth.

“Prayers of and for Thanksgiving!”

And if God could save him, there is hope for all people. Caesar? Yes. Annas and Caiaphas? Yes. Pontius Pilate? Yes. King Herod? Yes. Pray for them all, he says. For as his fellow apostle James had written, the prayer of a righteous person has great power (James 5:16).

But also, Paul says, when praying for them, not only pray for their conversion or that their evil ways could come to nothing, but pray with thanksgiving for all these people. To which we say: whaaaaat? How can that possibly be?

Well it can only be if prayer is not a matter of understanding but of faith. That we pray not because we understand all God is doing and how things will work out, but because we believe they will. Because we believe we have a heavenly Father who is working all things for our good (Romans 8:28). And isn't this a problem all children often? They don't understand their parents or what they do or why they do it. Why do I have to eat my yucky vegetables? Why do I have to go to bed at this time? Why can't I do what everyone else is doing? And maybe they think their parents are being mean or unfair. But later, they may understand. And get it.

So for us, as we gather on this Thanksgiving, we give thanks not because we know all the blessings God has bestowed on us or because we know all that He is doing in our lives and are thankful for it. We give thanks because as children of God, we trust that our Father is working all things for our good. That He is our Father - not because of anything we have done, but because of everything HE has done, and especially in sending His Son to save us. That He is a God and Father who can bring great good out of even the most trying and difficult and unlikely of circumstances . . . like a cross. Or 40 years in the wilderness. Or leprosy. In all these things He was working salvation, whether they knew it or not.

For if you had told that leper, while he was still a leper, to count his blessings, leprosy would not have been one of them. If you told Israel to count their blessings in year 23 of their time in the wilderness, the wilderness would not have been on their list. If you told the apostles to count their blessings while witnessing Jesus betrayed, arrested, whipped, and then bleeding and dying on a cross, that would not have even remotely entered their mind! And yet . . . what a blessing all those things turned out to be. That one leper not only healed of his disease but of his sin. Israel forced to rely on God and grow in faith and witness His faithfulness and goodness and long-suffering with them. And learning that man does not live by bread alone, but man lives by every word that comes from the mouth of the Lord. And, of course, without the cross, no resurrection, no forgiveness, no life without end.

Those were the blessings Paul was on the road to missing. Was the church praying for him? I believe so. Confused as they might have been as to why God was allowing this and this man to be! But God worked wonders through Paul, because of his past!

So, Paul goes on to say, pray in this way, that we may lead a peaceful and quiet life, godly and dignified in every way. That is, holy and worthy of respect. Because you can live your life in a frenzy and worried and anxious about what we see happening in the world and in our lives. But that does not lead to a peaceful and quiet life. That is not the life of faith. Instead, Paul says, pray. And that's not down the list of things to do! First of all, he says, first of all, pray. For this benefits those you pray for, and you. As you entrust all things to the care of your heavenly Father. As you remember He is in control, not you. As you trust that He will work everything out for your good, whether you see it or not, or understand it or not. And from that faith comes not only a peaceful and quiet life - even in the midst of a not-very-peaceful and not-very-quiet world! - but from such faith comes also thanksgiving.

So we'll do that everyday. We'll get a jump on the holiday and start today. For as we'll hear again, it is truly meet, right, and salutary that we should at all times and in all places give thanks to you, holy Lord, almighty Father everlasting God, through Jesus Christ, our Lord.

Through Jesus Christ, in whom we are children of God through baptism.

Through Jesus Christ, in whom we are forgiven and healed from the leprosy of our sin.

Through Jesus Christ, who feeds us with the food and drink we need in the wilderness of this world, His true Body and Blood.

Because like Paul, we were also lost and on the road to hell. But someone prayed for us. And not just someone, but Jesus Himself. And then He provided all we need for life now and life forever.

And so while we have a Day of National Thanksgiving, which is good, in the Church, every Sunday is Thanksgiving. For every Sunday we gather at the family table to pray and be fed and give thanks. First of all. On the first day of the week. As the first thing in the day. That we lead a peaceful and quiet life. With the peace of God which passes all understanding, and hearts quieted with God's love and forgiveness. That's the life God has for you in Christ Jesus. And to that, what more can we say, but Thanks be to God!

Stewardship Under the Cross #5 – Nov 2025 Newsletter

What does Martin Luther say on Tithing and Stewardship?

Here are Luther's quotes & thoughts on faithful, Biblical stewards:

“Thus it is said (in Proverbs 3): ‘Honor the Lord with your wealth.’ This must be understood not only of words and of worship of the mouth or kneeling, but of the deed itself. And Galatians 6 says ‘Let him who is taught in the Word share all good things with him who teaches.’ Therefore, when God wants to be honored, then He wants sacrifices to be offered, not only sacrifices of the mouth but also the reverence of the heart, yes, the deed itself. He wants us to help the ministry, and He wants everyone to contribute for the purpose of supporting the studies of the pupils and of propagating the doctrine. Then God is truly praised and glorified there.

Make a vow there and say: ‘I promise that I am willing to contribute something for the assistance of the churches.’ That is St Jacob's vow. Therefore, this example should be diligently instilled, namely, that Jacob vows tithes, not in order that God Himself may eat or be enriched; but he gives them to the poor ministers and to those who are always the least of the brethren or disciples of Christ on earth. For all other arts are gainful and have their profits. This profession alone is in need of bountiful giving. We must live from the altar as St Paul says. Accordingly, he who is godly and loves the Word of God contributes something. Otherwise, God has so ordained that we should live from the vows, sacrifices, and prayers that are owed to us by divine right. When the godly see the poverty and need of the ministers of the church and school, they make vows and obligate themselves to give tithes, as Jacob gave them.

Jacob did not make a foolish and godless vow, but it was a vow of thanksgiving. For he says: ‘If I come again, etc.’ It is as though he were saying: ‘I shall now obligate myself to pay a debt, and I shall make satisfactory restitution when I return. What? I shall build a school and church here, and I shall give a tithe of bulls and goats and fruits for its establishment and upkeep; likewise a tenth part of the milk and the butter.' Of course, God does not need these things. For He does not eat bread or drink wine, as He says in Psalm 50: 'Do I eat the flesh of bulls?' What, then, are you doing? I answer that Jacob is already righteous. Accordingly, he does not make a vow to placate God by making it; but he wants to do this to give thanks, to glorify God, in order that He may conduct him and bring him back according to the promise. Who will receive these tithes? Not the angels, not the sun, not the moon. But he will perform that extraordinary and glorious work for the purpose of preserving the ministry and founding churches and schools.

This is how Moses is to be understood, when he says in Deuteronomy: 'When you make a vow to the Lord your God, you shall not be slow to pay it.' What does it mean to make a vow to God, or whom is Moses addressing when he says: 'The Lord your God'? It means to give tithes to the disciples, sons, and wives of the prophets, to the poor and needy. These are the ones to be supported by the tithes offered to God, and through these tithes God is supported. For God says: 'Whatever you give to the children of the priests and prophets, through whom the doctrine grows, you must regard as given to Me, not that I may justify you through this work, but it should be a thanksgiving and a sacrifice of praise because I have justified you, and I have also blessed you in temporal matters. In addition, I shall bless you even more if you give ear to, support, and cherish the poor sons of the prophets.'"

As you can see, Martin Luther had much to say about the important role that stewardship plays in supporting the ministry of our Lord's church. Next month, as we conclude our Stewardship Under the Cross series, you will be given an opportunity to re-support the ministry work that is carried out by the Pastors and Teachers of Trinity Lutheran Church and School. We look forward to your enthusiastic and joy-filled response to this opportunity to give back to our Lord through His church.
